CLIMATEHOTEL

ClimateHotel (ClimaHotel/KlimaHotel) is the certification for sustainable tourism.

This innovative label certification offers a complete set of guidelines which value the complexity of hotel buildings in the three fields of sustainability: the ecological aspects (nature), the socio-cultural aspects (life) and the economic aspects (transparency).

A ClimateHotel uses available resources, aims to strengthen local tradition and culture and wishes to invest in a long-term stable economic development. For the guest this means wellbeing in full respect of nature and tradition.

The quality label ClimateHotel is issued after a series of valuations conducted along a set of ClimateHouse criteria. They start in the planning phase and end with the opening of the hotel. The ClimateHouse Agency provides the necessary technical consultancy in line with the certification process, so that the criteria can be met. All these characteristics allow the guest of a ClimateHotel to experience a building that respects nature and exhibits low energy consumption.

The certification is widely based on the Agency's experience and knowledge of energy issues, but it is new in the way it is applied: in a pre-certification process, the actual certification and a final re-certification after two years.

THE THREE FIELDS OF SUSTAINABILITY

NATURE

The hotel and its shell is planned according to the ClimateHouse-Standard B, the use of natural materials according to the ClimateHouse-Standard nature. The natural resources Water and Earth are protected by reducing all consumption to a minimum.

LIFE

The quality label guarantees a maximum of well-being, spatial comfort and accessibility.

TRANSPARENCY

The management and the administration of a ClimateHotel requires transparency and control. The intelligent choice of environmentally friendly, lasting and attractive materials, technologies and processes plays a key role.
